Message from LARRP Executive Director Troy Vaughn

It doesn’t matter if we are elected officials or citizens we all must agree that something needs to be done with the criminal justice system here in the United States (U.S.). The number of incarcerated individuals continues to climb and we are becoming numb to its effect. We continue to operate with the knowledge that the U.S. incarcerates more people per capita than any other country in the world. We know that our recidivism rates are too high, and that we police our racial/ethnic minority communities too much and too often with tragic results. We know our fellow citizens, mainly people of color, living in those communities continue to suffer from higher rates of crime and police violence.

We must conclude that the U.S. is addicted to over policing, prosecution, and imprisonment; and it’s a habit that it just cannot break. In order to help the U.S. break this habits, much like an addict is tapered off of dependence with Medicated Assist Treatment (MAT) services; we must employ Meaningful Alternative Treatment (MAT) Programs.

LARRP is dedicated to creating MAT programs because we understand that in spite of having lowest crime rates in 50 years (even considering the recent COVID-era surge) we still see conditions over policing, prosecution, and imprisonment prevailing throughout the U.S.

June Spotlight
LARRP LEADERS

Perhaps our most exciting new program is the LEADERS Training Academy is a project funded by CCJBH; Council on Criminal Justice and Behavioral Health. Its purpose is to provide capacity to the formerly incarcerated, the people who have been closest to the problem but the furthest away from the solutions.

LARRP is proud to be graduating its first LEADERS cohort of 12 amazing individuals!

LARRP LEADERS Graduation!!!

Jun 25, 2021 03:00 PM

LARRP is very proud to announce our first cohort Graduation ceremony 2021 for the LEADERS Training Academy.

We are excited to show the network these incredible 12 LEADERS that have exemplified what it is to be a Leader in our community and will continue to lead by example.

Come join us to celebrate these 12 amazing individuals and shine a light on them for being our first Cohort LARRP LEADERS!
With graduation season in the air, we are excited to spotlight our very own LARRP L.E.A.D.E.R Lami J. Glenn, who is graduating this month with his Associates of Arts Degree in Psychology. Lami has been part of the education team this past year not only has he been advocating in the education committee for equal opportunities within the reentry system, he has exemplified them himself by continuing his education after incarceration. Lami hopes to continue his education and become a professor. Keep on the look out for future professor Lami J. Glenn, he is a change agent in this work!

LARRP Updates

Adopt a Bike

In collaboration with the Los Angeles Metro, Walk and Rollers, and other community-based organizations, LARRP participated in an initiative called Adopt a Bike where entities collaboratively came together to assist our communities. This event took place Friday, May 21st at the Los Angeles Union Station where community members got the opportunity to pick out a free bike of their choice. Community members were ecstatic to receive their new bikes! If you would like to partner up with LARRP contact info@lareentry.org

Visit to the D.O.O.R.S Center
This month we had the pleasure of having Supervisor Holly Mitchell, Judge Espinoza, and our very own Pastor Troy Vaughn visit the D.O.O.R.S center to share with Supervisor Mitchell the amazing collaborative efforts everyone is doing at the D.O.O.R.S Community Reentry Center. This collaboration between the Los Angeles Probation, Office of Diversion and Reentry, and diverse community-based organizations show what true partnership looks like to assist our reentry communities. If you would like to learn more about the D.O.O.R.S Center contact our Outreach and Engagement Coordinator Evelyn Garcia at evelyn@lareentry.org

LARRP Policy

Policy Update

LARRP's policy work has been firing on all cylinders this past month as we worked through the state appropriations cycle.

Of our 15 priority bills, three of them did not make it out of the appropriations step; SB 106 (Umberg), The Mental Health Services Act Innovative Program, AB 907 (Santiago), Drivers License Fines and Penalties, and AB 328 (Chiu), the Reentry Housing and Workforce Development Program. These bills, having not passed through the appropriations cycle, are not able to be voted on this year, but may be able to be passed next year, as the legislative process lasts until the 2022 election.

Apart from those bills, AB 333 (Kamlager) failed in its Assembly vote with a 38-27 vote, missing the 41 vote threshold needed. It is being reconsidered for a vote, so it is not in the same position as the aforementioned appropriations bills.

Lastly, between now and June 4, every bill must be voted on and passed in its house of origin to have the possibility of becoming law. You can help by taking the updated policy documents attached to the newsletter and calling your State Assembly and Senate members to voice your support for each bill we have marked as a LARRP priority. Calling is a quick and effective way to voice your opinions and stand in solidarity with the justice-involved community.

Your ongoing support is the most crucial tool we have in order to fight for the social justice and reentry communities, and we appreciate every call you make on our behalf.

LARRP Co-sponsored Bill, SB 731(Durazo) - Sunsetting Criminal Records, was passed by the Senate Appropriations Committee which made the following amendments: sexual and violent felonies will not be eligible, there is a 4 year waiting period after finishing all sentencing requirements, and the bill is only retroactive back to 2005. This bill, like every other bill, will be voted on next week.

The coalition still believes strongly in the bill, as well as the fact that we are continuously working to secure the votes to ensure that the bill is voted on affirmatively in the Senate before the end of next week.

Senate Bill 731 - Creating Opportunity for Change

LARRP Leader Cynthia Blake sponsored on SB 731
The Future of Probation and Parole in the U.S.

LARRP has signed onto a statement by a group out of Columbia University on the Future of Probation and Parole in the U.S. This Statement was drafted by EXIT: Executives Transforming Probation and Parole, a network convened by the university's Justice Lab.

Founded by current and former probation and parole chiefs, EXIT's mission is to transform the systems of probation and parole to be smaller, less punitive, and more hopeful, equitable, and restorative, and the Statement lays out these goals as well as specific policy aims that they believe can help bring that transformation.

While EXIT started by organizing representatives supervision systems, they also recognize the expertise of those who have experienced harm at the hands of those systems. As such, EXIT is now seeking additional signatories, especially people who have experienced supervision and survived crime. Their hope is that this effort can demonstrate a broad base of support for significant change to probation and parole, which can galvanize action.

Please review the Statement, and if you are inclined to add your name in support of the Statement's message, the form for support can be found here. They are looking for individuals and organizations who have been affected by and operate in this space, so even if you personally have never been justice-involved, your organizational support would help this project continue forward.

Successful Youth Leadership Councils in Reentry Programming

June 4th, 2021
10:00 am PT

When young adults have the power to make decisions in programs that impact and serve them, they can have a more positive and fruitful experience. The organizations also benefit as they gain access to firsthand knowledge and experience in a meaningful way.

In this interactive webinar session, put on by the Latino Coalition, you will join representatives from FHI360’s National Institute for Work & Learning to learn about the history and philosophy behind youth engagement and youth-adult partnership. They will share the unique benefits and challenges of creating and managing a leadership council with young adults who have been impacted by the justice system. You will also get the perspective of a founding member of FHI360’s young adult leadership council on the impact of youth-adult partnership!

This month's spotlight features an individual partner rather than an organization. Someone whose name keeps popping up in action with so many of our partners that it seems about time we found out more about him.

So we would like to introduce Douglas Jessop, a Social Justice Advocate, Musician and Writer.

Wrongfully Convicted and incarcerated unlawfully, he spent that time studying the law, policies as the Prison Law Clerk. He wrote and filed cases that went to En Banc in the California Supreme Court, won Prison Appeals, had corrupt guards removed from facilities and helped other inmates gain their freedom. Once he was released he was rendered homeless and had to bounce back from the extremes of homelessness,

Now he attends college through UCLA, The Prison Education Program and works in the creative and marketing team at Universal. He is a Creative Futures Graduate, has been featured in multiple reports from ACLU. He is an advocate with Outreach Organizations such as Anti Recidivism Coalition, DA Accountability Coalition, Community Coalition, Los Angeles Poverty Department and more. Douglas was part of two subcommittees that put together the Youth Justice Reimagined, a proposal that was accepted by the Board of Supervisors unanimously, and wrote scripts regarding the crack cocaine disparity, that was also accepted by UCLA to turn into legislation.

"Social Justice Reform for me is personal. I've survived too much to not give back and use my insights to fix the extremes of poverty, life inside of it and break the toxic stigmas. In the future I aspire to be an award winning screenplay writer, best selling author, award winning recording artist/producer and CEO or Executive Director of a major policy changing organization."

Mission president changing the face of Skid Row

The Wave, May 13, 2021, By Shirley Hawkins

LOS ANGELES — For seven years, Troy Vaughn’s home was in a cardboard box on Los Angeles’ Skid Row.

“I lived in and out of the streets, sleeping in cardboard boxes periodically,” Vaughn said. “I was in and out of shelters, cars, and missions — anywhere just to find a place to sleep.”

L.A. County Cutting Hidden Costs of Incarceration

LA Progressive, by Jeremy Loudenback, 5/18/2021
Following impassioned testimony from more than a dozen advocates for incarcerated people and their families, the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors voted Tuesday to come up with a plan that would ban expensive collect calls and markups on commissary items in jails and juvenile detention facilities. Supervisor Hilda Solis, who authored the motion, said the vote recognizes the impact incarceration has had on communities of color during the COVID-19 pandemic, when more than a million calls were made from L.A. County jails — at a cost of $20 million to the families and friends of the incarcerated.

These license suspensions, which last at least 6 months,
The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors Tuesday released detailed data on the county jail population. Published in partnership with the Vera Institute of Justice, the jail “dashboard” is expected to be updated daily to help policymakers, advocates and researchers better understand the race, case status and incidence of mental illness — among other characteristics — of the people held behind bars.

Jail incarceration rates vary widely, but inexplicably, across U.S. cities. Cities jail people at rates that have little to no correlation to their violent crime rates, police budgets, or jail budgets.

Prison Policy Initiative, by Tiana Herring, May 4, 2021

Why do some places incarcerate people at much higher rates than others? We considered this question in 2019, when we compared prison incarceration rates across U.S. counties, finding a wide range that loosely correlated to the respective state imprisonment rates. Now, we can do the same for jail incarceration rates.
